Featured Speakers

Dr. Dan Morrill

Dr. Dan Morrill, the most senior member of the UNC Charlotte faculty in terms of years of service, has also served as Consulting Director of the local Historic Landmarks Commission since 1974. He has conducted extensive research on Charlotte-Mecklenburg history and has written more than 100 Survey and Research Reports on prospective historic landmarks. Recently, he published a new book, "Historic Charlotte: An Illustrated History." He has also administered design review over restoration projects, has overseen the renovation of historic structures, and has prepared nominations for the National Register of Historic Places. Dr. Morrill draws on his extensive knowledge when teaching undergraduate courses in historic preservation.

Dr. Morrill will describe and explain the major themes in Charlotte-Mecklenburg history. He will focus upon local imperatives for economic growth and development and demonstrate how racial attitudes and arrangements have changed to serve those ends.

Dr. Jeanneine Jones

Jeanneine P. Jones is an Associate Professor of Middle Grades Education at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte where she serves as Chair of the Department of Middle Grades, Secondary, and K-12 Education.

Dr. Jeanneine Jones
Education
UNC Charlotte

Prior to graduation from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro (M.Ed. and Ed.D.), she taught eighth grade English language arts and social studies for fifteen years at Western Alamance Middle School.

The former author of the Teacher to Teacher column in NMSA's Middle School Journal, she has published numerous articles, columns, and textbook chapters on her teaching experiences and research. She currently serves as co-editor of the state's Middle School Journal. In addition, she has worked with many schools and districts across the state to facilitate their improved implementation of middle school programs, concepts, and English Language Arts (ELA) content.

Jones' presentation, "You Must be Present to Win: Adult Students Changing the Face of Higher Education," promises to offer valuable information for adult students and professionals alike.

Ms. Roxanne Newton

Roxanne Newton is Director of the Humanities and Developmental Education Division at Mitchell Community College. She also teaches Women's Studies, English, and College Student Success courses and is past chairperson of the Faculty Senate.

In addition, Newton facilitates state and regional faculty workshops in assessment, learning and teaching styles, and cooperative learning.

In 1998, Newton was awarded the RD Grier Excellence in Education Award and was a finalist for the NC Community College System/First Union Excellence in Teaching Awards.

A 1978 graduate of Mitchell Community College, Newton was a nontraditional student who earned BA and MA degrees in English from UNC Charlotte where she was awarded the Anne R. Newman Award for Excellence in Graduate Study. Currently Newton is enrolled in the Educational Foundations and Cultural Studies doctoral program at UNC Greensboro. Her research interests include critical pedagogy, women's studies, and discourse analysis.

In her presentation, "Transcendent Narratives of Student Community: The NC Women's History Quilt Project," Newton and students from the class will offer their impressions about the class and the quilt project. The NC Women's History Quilt will be on display.

Location

A simmering pot of urbanity and hearty rural backdrops, Charlotte represents the best of the New South. Every year, thousands of visitors romp and relax in the Queen City where they can take in Verdi's "La Traviata" with Opera Carolina or bathe in the warm southern breezes of Crowders Mountain after a climb. Some of these visitors will even make Charlotte their home, drawn by the area's thriving commercial hub or one of its 25 area schools. Whatever the reason to attend, Charlotte's location, topography, and attractions make it the perfect spot for ANTSHE's first conference on the east coast.

Don't miss out on ANTSHE's sixth annual conference. Call 1-800-722-1994 or visit www.charlottecvb.org for more information on Charlotte or to request a visitor's guide.

Accommodations

Minutes away from uptown Charlotte, Hilton Charlotte University Place is located within a quiet lakeside park that features a
